

In second TV interview

Relaxed Nixon relives foreign policy matters

WASHINGTON (AP) — A relaxed Richard Nixon, casting himself as coolly in charge of his own foreign policy, says he initiated overtures to China, faced the Russians down in the 1973 Middle East war and rescued Egyptian President Anwar Sadat from "a coup or worse."

In a taped interview with British television personality David Frost, Nixon said he had to overcome the reservations of Henry Kissinger to maintain U.S. military operations in Cambodia in 1970, despite demonstrations at Kent State and other universities.

And, again over Kissinger's warnings of possible political and diplomatic implications, Nixon said he ordered the Pentagon to "send everything that flies" to Israel to help the Jewish state snap back from the 1973 Yom Kippur attack by Egypt and Syria.

Thursday night's telecast over an informal network of 155 television stations was the second of five programs expected to bring Nixon approximately $1 million.

Nixon appeared as confident discussing world affairs in Thursday's taped interview as he had appeared uneasy in dealing with his Watergate downfall in last week's telecast.

Nixon, the only man to resign the presidency, assessed the world leaders he met while president and called Kissinger, who became both secretary of state and national security chief, "a genius" who had to have things his way.

Of the world leaders he met, Nixon said:

—The late Chairman Mao Tse-tung of China had "a devilish sense of humor" and lived very simply. Despite debilitating strokes he maintained control over China until his death last year.

—The late Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev was both brilliant and boorish, with "a terrible inferiority complex."

—Khrushchev's successor, Leonid I. Brezhnev, is not as quick intellectually, but also is not as volatile "and in that way a much safer man to have sitting there with his finger on the (nuclear) button."

Nixon called Kissinger an emotional intellectual who "likes to say outrageous things." He said Kissinger, who likes being a celebrity, constantly feuded with William P. Rogers before succeeding him as secretary of state.

After the Watergate scandal forced Nixon's resignation, Kissinger was sometimes critical of his old boss. In a dinner conversation in Ottawa, Canada, in October 1975, for instance, he was overheard describing Nixon as an odd and artificial man.

"Quite candidly," Nixon said, "it drives my family right up the wall and it's only because it bothers them, that it would bother me at all."

Besides, he went on, "after such accounts appear, I know that I always get a call from Henry on the phone explaining that there's been either a misquotation, or misinterpretation, or what have you."

"And, I have always said to him, 'Forget it.'"

Kissinger could not be reached for comment on Nixon's observations. An assistant in his downtown Washington office said the former secretary of state would have nothing to say. A call to his home in Georgetown was taken by an answering service and not returned.

Surveying his achievements, Nixon said he conceived of the possibility of an initiative toward China before he ever met Kissinger, who nevertheless pursued it "with enormous enthusiasm."

In the Middle East, he said, he cautioned the Soviets not to move in military forces during the 1973 war and rejected as "sheer madness" a proposal by them that they act jointly to impose a ceasefire.

To help Israel repulse the attack by Egypt and Syria, Nixon said he ordered a massive airlift of American weapons. But when Israeli forces crossed the Suez Canal and surrounded the Egyptian third army Nixon said he persuaded them not to destroy it.

Like the storied Mafia "Godfather," Nixon said he gave the Israelis "an offer that they could not refuse" — a promise of American support whenever Israel came under attack.

"If the Israelis had insisted on capturing and destroying the Egyptian third army, that would have brought about, I predicted, a coup or worse as far as Sadat was concerned," Nixon said.

"Somebody would have come into power in Egypt, probably worse than Nasser, oriented toward the radical point of view. Egypt would have become a total Soviet satellite state and Israel would have won a Pyrrhic victory."

"They would have planted the seeds for a war of revenge such as you've never seen. And, therefore, we were right in restraining Israel; right from their own self-interest."

Weeklong observance scheduled

County's senior citizens to be in spotlight

Fayette County's senior citizens will be in the spotlight next week. "Senior Citizens Week" will be observed in Fayette County from Sunday, May 15 through Saturday, May 21.

The Fayette County Commission on Aging has planned a full week of activities including a special banquet to recognize the county's elderly residents.

Washington C.H. City Council and the Fayette County Board of Commissioners have signed a joint proclamation declaring the week of May 15-21 as Senior Citizens Week here.

The activities will begin Sunday when 38 churches in the Fayette County area will recognize senior citizens in their own manner.

On Monday, students from Belle-Aire, Eastside, Cherry Hill and Chaffin elementary schools will be singing at four area nursing homes. The students are scheduled to visit the Court House Manor Nursing Home, the Deanview Nursing Home, the Margaret Clark Oakfield Convalescent Center and the Quiet Acres Nursing Home. Flowers made by Camp Fire Girls will be presented to the nursing home patients.

Odd couple making deliveries

Elderly canine sidekick for local postal carrier

By CINDI PEARCE

Record-Herald Staff Writer

Dogs are supposed to be the mailman's nemesis, but Dick Wood, a Washington C.H. postal carrier, has a canine for a sidekick.

For the past five years, Buffy Marchant, a 10-year-old "Heinz 57" belonging to Judge and Mrs. Rollo M. Marchant and their children, has "delivered mail" with Wood.

The strange partnership began when Wood carried mail on East Street where Buffy resides. For Buffy, whom Wood initially called "Heiny" until he learned her proper name, following Wood around for each day provided diversion in her otherwise routine dog's life. At first, Buffy would accompany Wood to one or two houses, then turn around and be on her way. But, the yellow canine apparently decided she liked the life of the mailman and began meeting Wood daily on Ogle Street. The dog would then proceed to trudge along beside him as he distributed mail.

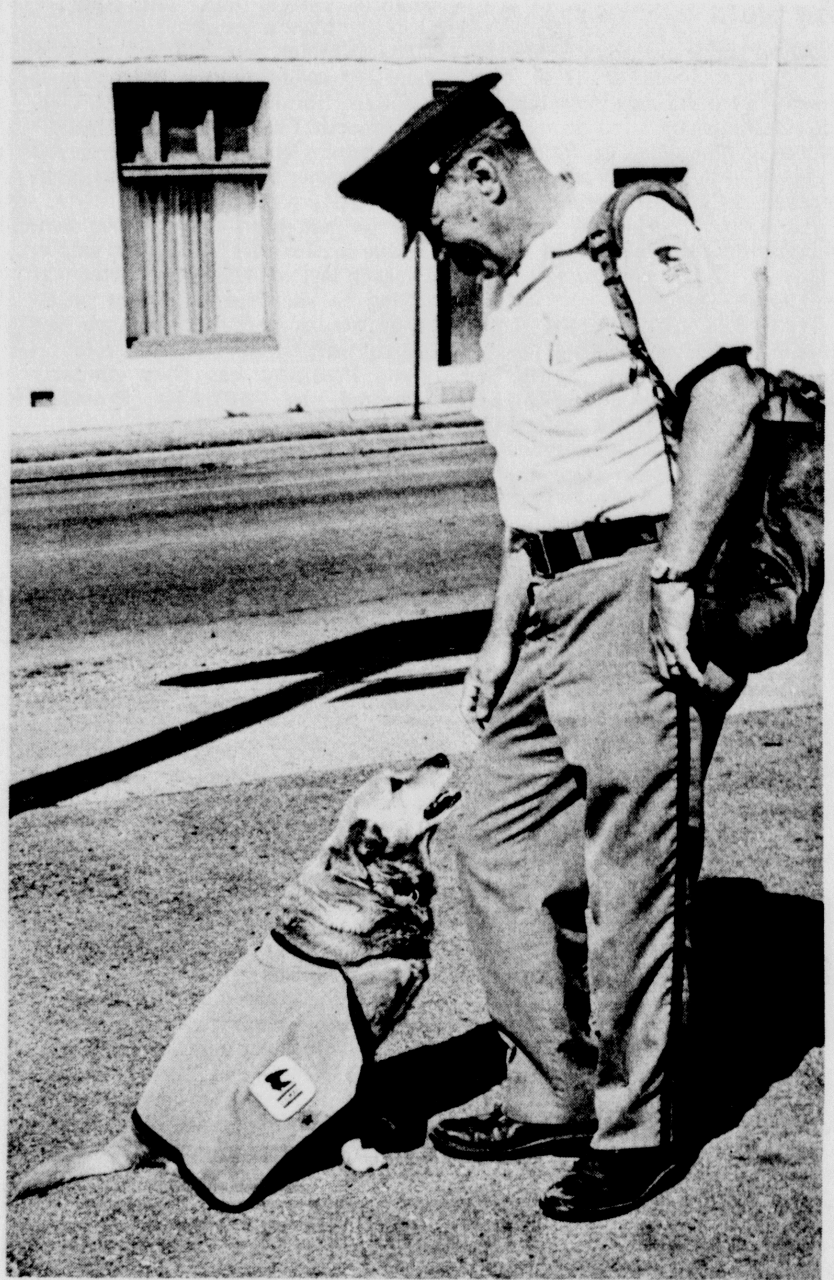

"I do some of my route in a car, and Buffy used to chase the car. I would pick her up so she wouldn't get run over, which, Wood mused, "was a mistake." The daily car rides cemented Buffy's devotion to Wood.

Since Wood's route has changed somewhat (he now delivers mail on E. Court Street and Washington Avenue) instead of meeting him at Ogle Street, Buffy goes to the post office, corner of North Hinde and W. Market streets, daily. Rain, shine, sleet, snow, hail, or heat, Buffy Marchant is at the post office by 7:15 a.m. waiting for her partner.

Buffy, who is now 70-years-old by dog age standards, is beginning to show the wear and tear of the aged, but she stays with Wood until his route is completed at 3:30 p.m. each day, and then heads for home.

"Buffy knows the route and she knows when and where we get in the car. Sometimes she'll walk ahead and then I'll catch up with her," Wood said.

Even though Buffy is a diligent and Buffy took off running in the other direction."

City building purchase report a bit premature

Thursday's report in the Record-Herald on Washington C.H. City Council's decision to purchase the Kirk's Auto Parts building at 215 E. Market St. was a bit premature.

Although City Council and Bud Brownell, the owner of the building, have agreed on the sale price, the purchase has not yet been finalized. City officials did discuss the purchase with Brownell Thursday morning following the passage of a motion at Wednesday's City Council meeting to purchase the building. The sale price is reportedly $50,000.

Before the transaction becomes final, some type of legislation would need to be approved by City Council. That legislation, whether it will be in ordinance or resolution form, will not be brought to a vote until City Solicitor Gary D. Smith studies the transaction and a title search is completed.

Presently, city officials are studying ways to finance the purchase of the building. There are no funds allocated in the 1977 budget for such a purchase.

One of the ways to finance the purchase would be to turn city-owned land into cash. City Council has discussed the possibility of selling all or part of 16 acres of land located on Robinson Road and over an acre and a half of land at the end of N. Fayette Street.

Council approved the purchase of the building to secure a home for the city's administrative offices. Presently, the city leases an office building at 210 N. Fayette St., but the building is considered too small for future expansion.

The Market Street building with its nearly 70,000 square foot area would give the city room to expand its offices and would also provide a meeting site for City Council. Council has been meeting in various buildings in recent months. Presently meetings are held in the Carnegie Public Library.

OLD-FASHIONED SETTING — Bill Thompson's farm, located at 688 Wildwood Road, was the site for the signing of a proclamation which officially declared the week of May 15 through May 21 Senior Citizen's Week in Fayette County. City and county officials and members of the Fayette County Commission on Aging, donned old-fashioned costumes and hopped aboard Thompson's antiquated wagon which was drawn by two of his Belgium horses, Topsy and Shirley.

Carter signs public works bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is preparing to sign a $4-billion public works bill that supporters say could create as many as 600,000 new jobs.

With 25 mayors from some of the nation's major cities expected to look on, the President planned to sign the legislation this morning in the White House Rose Garden.

Carter mentioned the jobs bill Thursday as he held a nationally televised news conference in which he discussed his summit trip to Europe and defended his domestic policies.

The President was asked about Democratic liberals' criticism of his economic policies. In turning aside such complaints, Carter listed the jobs bill as an accomplishment, then also listed appropriations for local governments, a summer jobs program and his proposal to revamp the funding of the Social Security system.

"I do not consider these moves to help people to go back to work and have a good life to be incompatible with a balanced budget before my own term of office is over," he said, linking a balanced budget and "the right of people to have a job."

The $4-billion jobs bill will provide money for road repairs, construction of hospitals, libraries and police stations and other projects designed to benefit communities and put the unemployed to work, especially those laid off from construction jobs.

Carter had been criticized by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who said in a speech last weekend that Carter was willing to sacrifice important social programs in order to balance the federal budget.

The President has been similarly criticized by AFL-CIO President

George Meany. Carter said that despite the labor chief's criticism administration proposals affecting organized labor were unexcelled, "even going back to the early days of Lyndon Johnson."

In an informal question-and-answer session with reporters after the televised conference, the President also said he thought former President Richard M. Nixon "was guilty of impeachable offenses" in the Watergate scandal, but "he has rationalized in his own mind that he did all of these things for the benefit of his staff members... and that he didn't have any criminal intent."

On his European trip and on other foreign topics Carter said: "I can report substantial success" as a result of "a renewed spirit of hope and confidence" coming from meetings in Europe with the leaders of the major industrial nations.

The United States will not recognize the Palestinian Liberation Organization as long as the PLO refuses to accept the right of Israel to exist. And providing a homeland for the Palestinians is of crucial importance in arriving at a peace settlement in the Middle East.

Arab leaders he has met accept the special U.S. relationship with Israel and that relationship "will be permanent as long as I am in office." The statement was a reassurance to Israel's government, which recently has questioned Carter's commitment.

French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing invited him to visit Paris but he had not decided whether he would go this year.

Problems in settling longstanding claims and Peking's refusal to recognize the government of Taiwan kept him from setting a target date for establishing full relations with mainland China.

On domestic topics, the President said:

—He hoped Congress would pass early next year his plan to revamp the welfare system. He said he expects to complete the proposal by August but predicted it will take two years to implement.

—FBI agents, other law enforcement and intelligence officials and the President should not be immune from prosecution for wrongdoing, merely because they work for the government.

—His top staff members, who recently received a salary increase, are not overpaid and pay increases for members of Congress and the judiciary were justified.

—There is no need to buy more A7 attack aircraft because superior airplanes are available to replace it.

—Expectations of major tax cuts for businesses would be erroneous.

—Asked if he feels any political threat from McGovern or from California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., he said "I feel quite secure in my position."

Paint Valley Kennel Club-sponsored obedience course, Buffy is well cared for by those on Wood's route. People sometimes put out food for her. "One hot July day last year, five different ladies put out water for her," Wood remembered.

Asked if Buffy has ever missed a day of work, Wood said, "Last Saturday, when it rained, she didn't come, but then someone said they saw her around one o'clock heading for the post office."

Last winter Buffy faithfully went on the route with Wood. "She never missed a day. She had ice and snow hanging from her stomach, but she went."

Because of arthritis, Buffy isn't too quick on her feet anymore and Wood worries about her crossing streets. "She lumbers across Washington Avenue, but the traffic usually stops for her," he said.

Concerned that perhaps someday a car won't halt for his sidekick, Wood has his sister, Helen Jones, make an official-looking cape for Buffy, which the dog donned for the first time Thursday. The postman-blue cape, which was made from an old pair of trousers, sports an official U.S. Post Office emblem and a star, signifying Buffy's five years of service. Wood is confident now that traffic will stop for the official looking Buffy... because no one would want to impede the delivering of the mail, would they?

Stock list opens higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened a shade higher today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up .43 to 925.97 in the early going. Gainers were running slightly ahead of losers among issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Meanwhile, Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, announced an increase from 6 1/4 to 6 1/2 per cent in its prime rate as the stock market opened.

The prime rate has been unchanged since January.

Analysts said that announcement might have the affect of weighing down the market since increases in the basic lending rate make business expansion more expensive.

The Federal Reserve Board's announcement of the nation's weekly money supply, issued after the close of the NYSE on Thursday, however, had provided some favorable news to traders in a money-sensitive market, analysts noted.

Early prices included Ethyl Corp., off 1/8 at 42 1/4; Bally, off 3/4 at 20 1/2; and Eastman Kodak, down 1/8 at 57 1/2.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average, down more than five points during the day, closed off 1.36 at 925.54.

Losers outnumbered gainers by only a small fraction among issues listed on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 21.98 million shares, up from 18.98 million on the previous day.

The NYSE's composite index lost .02 to 53.96.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .35 at 113.69.

Erin Fleming in new bid

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Erin Fleming, seen by some witnesses as an ill-tempered menace to Groucho Marx and by others as the joy of his waning years, is resuming her legal bid for permanent control over the comedian and his property.

Opposing her is Groucho's son, Arthur, who succeeded last month in having Miss Fleming removed as temporary guardian after alleging she was a threat to the 86-year-old Marx' life.

Miss Fleming, 37, who has served as secretary, manager, producer and companion to Marx for seven years, has hired a new firm of lawyers for the court battle "which remains at a hearing today.

Groucho, in failing health and frequently confused, remains confined to his Trousdale Estates home. J. Brin Schulman, attorney for Arthur Marx, said Groucho apparently is unaware that intimate details of his treatment by Miss Fleming — which allegedly involved verbal and physical abuse and improper drugging — have been bared in court.

At the end of a week-long hearing that ended April 22, Superior Court Judge Edward Rafeedie suspended Miss Fleming and appointed Nat Perrin, 72, a screenwriter and old friend of Marx, to care for the comedian and his multimillion dollar estate for the time being.

Under the judge's order, Miss Fleming was to visit Marx only as Perrin saw fit.

U.S. economy

Despite their concern with Carter's policies, the business leaders offered as a group to help the administration by advising and consultation.

The group was most concerned about the need for a tax revision package, saying the administration "must lower the tax burden on the productive sector of the economy."

However, in a news conference Thursday, Carter said his aides are working on "a well-balanced" tax system that won't favor the business community.

He said it would be "erroneous" to assume that major tax reductions "would fall to the business community."

The business leaders did not comment on Carter's remarks.

The corporate executives urged Congress to propose a tax package that would include changes in the taxing of dividends, lowering corporate tax rates and revising business replacement allowances that now are based on original costs of equipment rather than on replacement costs.

The Business Council, led this year by John D. deButts, chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., was formed in 1933 to foster a better relationship between business interests and government.

China sees Soviet-U.S. war

TOKYO (AP) — Chinese Defense Minister Yeh Chien-ying predicts a "big war" soon between the United States and the Soviet Union and says China "must race against time" to build up industry in the interior before it happens.

In a speech in Peking on May 9 to a nationwide industrial conference, Yeh said the United States and the Soviet Union "are locked in an increasingly fierce struggle for hegemony" and "a war will break out some day."

"We must be clearly aware of this situation," Yeh continued, "keep war in mind and get prepared for it, for a big war that will break out at an early date."

"We must race against time and work as quickly as possible so that we can build industry in the interior well before the outbreak of war."

Party Chairman Hua Kuofeng echoed Yeh, saying, "We must definitely be ready for war. We cannot afford to let time slip through our fingers as it waits for no one. Accelerating development of our national economy at a rapid pace is a task which brooks no delay."

The texts of the speeches were published today by Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency. Observers in Tokyo interpreted the talk of war as an attempt to impart a sense of urgency to plans to develop China into a major industrial power by the end of the century.

No stereo in space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A recording of the sounds of pounding surf, wind, thunder, animals and birds, plus greetings in more than 50 languages, may be shot into space this summer.

But any extraterrestrial civilization looking for galactic listening pleasure will have to do some hi-fi tinkering. Although the record, called the Sounds of Earth, would be accompanied by instructions, phonograph head and needle, it won't be sent with a record player.

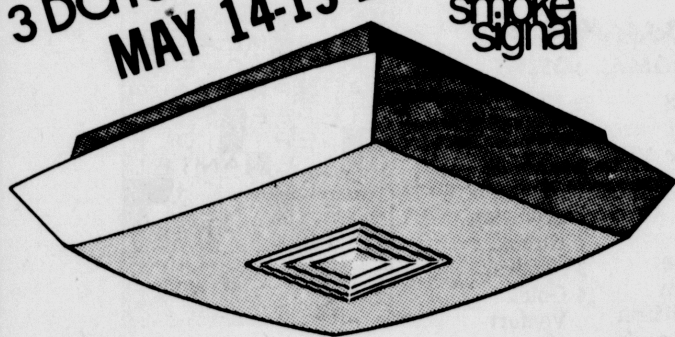

"If the civilization is advanced enough to capture the space craft, they would be advanced enough to find a way to amplify the sound," a National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said.

The proposal to send one of the silvery steel records on each of two Voyager spacecraft headed for Jupiter, Saturn and possibly Uranus and Neptune is being considered by Dr. Alan Lovelace, acting NASA administrator.

Opinion And Comment

A confession of guilt

A vast spate of comment has been devoted to David Frost's televised interview of Richard M. Nixon about his involvement in the Watergate coverup. A large part of this comment has dealt with more or less peripheral aspects of that TV happening: how Nixon looked and acted, how well he acquitted himself, whether his interviewer asked the right questions and bored in hard enough, and so on.

All this was of great interest; the entire show could be viewed as high drama. Yet this was not a dramatic performance - not theatre. This was the nearest thing we shall see to a public accounting for the wrongs done by a president who resigned to avoid impeachment and trial and then was wrapped in the mantle of a presidential pardon.

The questions to be asked are variants of those one would ask after a trial: Was the truth brought out? What was the verdict? In this context: Did more of the truth than was hitherto known emerge from Nixon's responses? Does he now appear more, or less, guilty than he seemed before? And one more: Can the former president be said to have admitted that he was guilty of obstructing justice and abusing presidential power?

To employ one of the memorable phrases gleaned from the White House tapes, Nixon's performance under questioning was a "modified, limited hangout". He tended to be evasive, even while purporting to be frank and open and anxious to tell it as it was. For the most part he was on the defensive, elaborating on self-serving interpretations of things said or done. Yet there were moments of candor, and some additions to the record. So yes: on balance, a little more of the truth now seems available.

As to whether Nixon appears more or less guilty now, in light of the interview's disclosures, that is a subjective question. Our feeling is that he said nothing which alters the basic conclusion that he was indeed guilty of impeachable offenses as the House Judiciary Committee declared.

Finally, was there specific acknowledgement of guilt? Not directly; Nixon spoke of "mistakes" and "bad judgments" rather than wrongdoing.

A WORD EDGEWISE...By John P. Roche

The Quebec confrontation

The harder you look at the growing separatist operation in Quebec, the more ominous the situation appears.

While no parallel can ever catch the nuances, Quebec in 1977 has a baleful resemblance to Northern Ireland in, say, 1965. Of course, the odds are reversed: in Northern Ireland the Catholic Irish constitute about a third of the population, whereas in Quebec the Catholic French are about 80 per cent.

However, in both cases the English Protestants have historically controlled the economy, discriminated against Catholics, and engaged in egregious class snobbery. When you wrap religion, ethnicity and class in one package, you are dealing with dynamite. The dynamite cap is then provided by new actors on the historical stage: terrorists espousing some murky left-wing credo.

Quebec has always been a nationalist enclave, but a peculiar one because of traditional domination by the extremely conservative Catholic Church. Thus during World War I the "habitants" refused support to the atheist Third French Republic; in World War II they were strongly Petainist. In essence a fragment of Royalist France was parked in North America. Until recently it was predominantly rural.

A friend of mine in graduate school, for example, went to a Quebec village in the late 1940s to do some sociological research. He and his wife had assiduously learned Canadian French (which Frenchmen have trouble understanding), were Catholic, and planned to melt into the background for a year. The day after their arrival a messenger appeared inviting them to the town hall. On arrival they were interrogated at length by the potentates: the "Maire" and the "Cure."

The mayor, satisfied they were not enemy agents, signed off, but the priest insisted on inspecting their quarters. He noted with disapproval they had twin beds and proceeded to inspect their library! Several volumes were severely criticized, and he departed with instructions on the time for Confession and the Mass. They felt they had been prematurely admitted to Purgatory.

Their experience was not atypical - the Church authorities in Quebec actually persuaded Rome to rousticate the archbishop. His crime? He supported the labor movement and was obviously an underground Marxist. Meanwhile in Montreal, Maurice Duplessis' "Union Nationale" developed a nasty mix of reactionary chauvinism spiced with anti-Semitism. True, most Quebecois were not extremists - in national elections they were a bulwark of the Liberal Party - but the component elements of an explosion were there.

But what could be the common denominator uniting pious French conservatives, an urban intelligentsia, Trotskyites, fascists, farmers and factory workers? On its face this unlikely coalition sounds like the beginning of a saloon brawl. Yet, as the Basques have demonstrated since the beginning of time, there is one trumpet call that brings all the troops into line: language, the demand that the "old tongue" be respected.

Now Americans, perhaps because we descended from the Tower of Babel, have generally been very relaxed about foreign languages in our midst. Until the xenophobia of World War I, literacy was not even a requirement for naturalization. My guess is that if a delegation of Chinese-Americans went to Boston's City Council and asked for ballots in Chinese, the response would be favorable. "Why not? It doesn't cost anything." Boston's Chinatown already has bilingual street signs. A city councillor who argued that this was a capitulation, a symbolic acceptance of fractures in the body politic, would be considered a nut. "Symbols, sh-mymbols, let's get back to busting the mayor."

Other nations, unfortunately have not displayed this resilience (or insensitivity, as they see it) and looney battles go on. A Breton family gives its child a Gaelic name; the name is not in the French government's book of acceptable names; the child is illegitimate! Both the English and French are famous for their assumptions of linguistic grandeur. On one hand, it's, "if they want to be civilized, they can bloody well learn English"; on the other, a Paris gendarme once, when we were lost in a howling rainstorm, corrected my pronunciation of Rue Poincare. And only then did he point with towering contempt and say, "C'est la."

In Quebec these two forces have hit head-on. But the language question is only the tip of the iceberg.

Buckeye trail walk extends 700 miles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Taking a walk along the Buckeye Trail can be a mighty long trip. Actually, it can be about 700 miles right now. Next year, who knows?

"The trail was started in 1959 when about a half dozen of us decided there ought to be a trail from the lake to the river," said Bob Paton, executive director of the Buckeye Trail Association. That was accomplished by 1964. The trail ran from Mentor to near Cincinnati. "Then we thought there should be a trail from Cincinnati to Toledo. There are some gaps yet, but we're making good progress," Paton said. "We really are awfully close to that dream of going clear around the state with a hiking trail."

The trail is maintained by the Buckeye Trail Association of Worthington. Members worked out the route, which crosses private property as well as public lands.

"In Ohio, a state which is primarily privately owned, an agricultural state, we don't have the mountain terrain of an Appalachian Trail — which extends from Georgia to Mt. Katahdin in Maine," Paton said. "We do have lots of parks and state forests...and we use those. We have a lot of the trail through industrial lands, such as Ohio Power Co. property, strip mined areas, abandoned canals, old railroads, quite a lot of private lands where we have been given permission to cross.

The trail is marked with blue painted blazes on trees or poles, a single blaze the customary mark with two blazes — one above the other — before a turn and a single one immediately beyond.

There are about 1,100 members of the Buckeye Trail Association, representing almost every county in Ohio as well as 25 states. "Why anyone from California, New Mexico and Maine would be interested in the Buckeye Trail I can't tell you," Paton said, "but they are."

Bethel in Clermont County was the home of Thomas Morris, a United States senator in the 1830s who opposed John C. Calhoun's and Henry Clay's proslavery utterances. He was one of the first officials to come out in the open against slavery and his stand cost him his political career. — AP

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Couple 'adopted'
by wealthy woman

DEAR ABBY: My friend is a wealthy 76-year-old widow who is being "taken" by a couple in their 40s who lives near her.

This couple is a husband-and-wife team who have made a "career" out of being this widow's friend. They see that she has company every evening (inviting themselves to her home for dinner), they do all her chores: shopping, cleaning, painting, yard work, etc.

I understand they even have a key to her home and her safety deposit box! She bought them a new car and has given them an interest-free loan so their son could go to college.

I am told that these con artist are going to get a bulk of her estate when she passes on. I think her estate should go to her own kinkfolk who live in a faraway state, don't you?

Should I get in touch with her relatives and tell them what is going on here? They haven't been here in years, so they have no way of knowing.

CONCERNED FRIEND

DEAR CONCERNED: Allowing for your good intentions, I think you are meddling in your friend's affairs. She obviously appreciates the couple's companionship and help, and unless she is mentally incompetent, she's entitled to do whatever she wants with her money — now and later.

Her kinkfolk who haven't visited this aging widowed relative in years seem less deserving to share in her estate than the neighbors you describe.

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is entirely too friendly to strange women. For instance, he will bury his nose in an elevator operator's hair and say, "My, you have beautiful hair — and it smells nice, too."

Or he will compliment a waitress on her "beautiful legs" or "school-girl figure."

When I tell him that it shows a lack of respect to me when he does this in my presence, he says he is only trying to make a poor working girl feel good.

How do you feel about this sort of thing, Abby? Am I wrong to resent it?

BARRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It is ill-mannered and presumptuous for a man to make personal remarks (complimentary or otherwise) to strange women in (or out of) his wife's presence.

Tell Barry if he doesn't cut it out, one of those poor working girls is apt to work him over.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have a CB radio. Last month I met someone in person that I used to talk to on the radio. We go to the same school, so he was easy to meet.

This person is 15 and spends his weekends at Juvenile Hall. He told me last week that he has six months more at Juvy Hall, after which he will be on probation for a long time. He said he would rather kill himself than to keep going back there for weekends, and that is what he is planning to do.

He said his mother is finally sick of him, and his stepdad couldn't care less about him. I asked if he didn't have some relatives he could stay with, and he said nobody wants him.

Do you think it would be a wise decision to ask this person to come and live with my family because that's exactly what he needs. A family. I think living with us could help him a lot. What do you think?

T.S.

DEAR T.S.: I think you are to be commended for your concern about this person's welfare, but it's up to your parents to make that decision, not me.

Avoid skepticism, doubt, pessimism. On the other hand, don't fall for any suggestions which common sense tells you have but dubious value.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Astute judgment needed; also self-restraint under pressure. Be tactful in speech, cautious in finalizing agreements. Some tricky spots indicated.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Some unexpected moves will call for alertness in all areas. Don't be overly suspicious where it's not warranted, however.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

You will be judged more by actions than by words. But be sure that BOTH register to your benefit. Discuss "sticky" problems with knowing heads.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Curb tendencies toward extravagance, pacing yourself too hectically. Tendencies toward extremism abound.

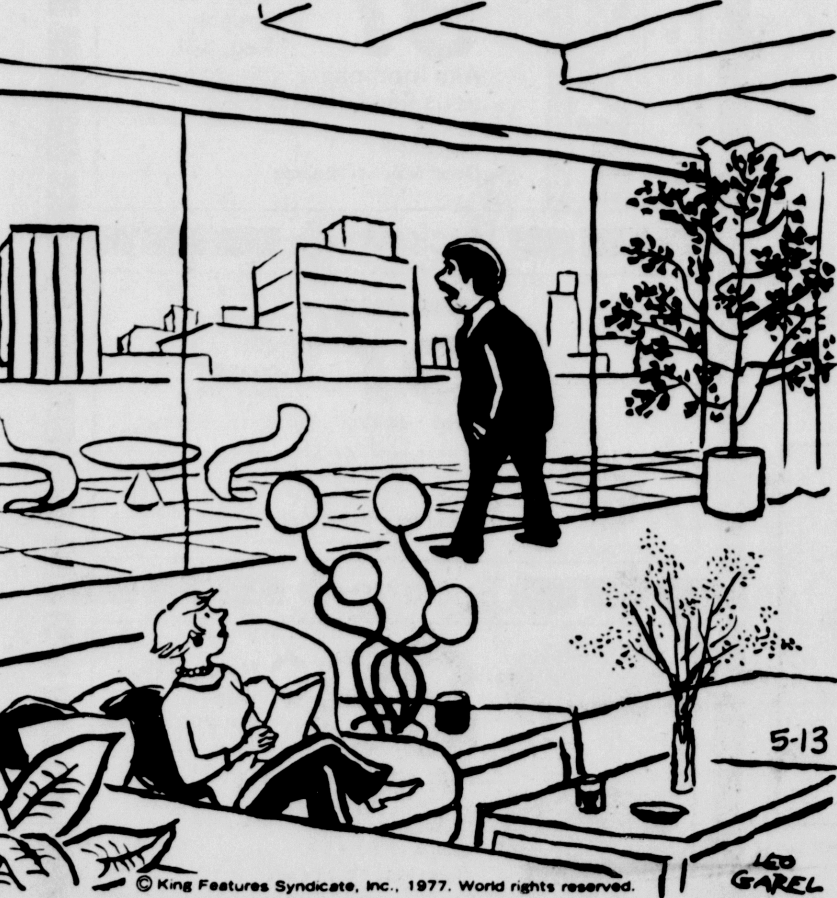

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Don't insist on your own way if others disagree, except where right must prevail. Enjoy friends whose interests revive your spirits.

YOU BORN TODAY are an exceedingly sympathetic individual; have an empathy to others and instinctively understand their wants and needs. Because of this, you would do extremely well in the fields of medicine, nursing, psychology or sociology. Highly idealistic and imaginative, you would also make an outstanding artist (in almost any field) but could especially excel in painting, sculpture, music or writing. Your love of beauty extends to the outdoors, and you would make an excellent gardener, landscape artist or botanist. Try to curb tendencies toward doubt and anxiety over your efforts. When Taurean is at his best, no one can surpass him.

Area Church Services

Sr. citizens to be recognized

On Sunday, May 15, the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, along with other churches in the community, will be honoring the Senior Citizens of the community and the congregation. Several members of the church will be assisting in the worship service, and the message for the worship hour will be: Thank God For Older Christians. This special occasion has been planned and recommended by the county unit for service to our senior citizens, and its emphasis is recommended by all churches of the county.

The congregation sponsors many projects and programs for the older members of the church and acts as host for the Senior Nutrition Program of the area. Several members of the congregation have been honored in the past by being nominated as the Senior Citizen of the Year.

Older members of the congregation and shut-ins are being urged to be in attendance if possible. Transportation can be arranged by calling the church office.

Mr. & Mrs. Rambo present program for Cecilian banquet

Eighty-three members and guests of The Cecilians gathered in Fellowship Hall of Grace United Methodist Church for the annual May Banquet. Tables were decorated in spring colors and a musical symbol of G-clefs. Preceding the dinner Mrs. Michael Campbell, president, welcomed those present and made awards to two girls present. Mary Ragland of Washington Middle School and Pam Thomas of Eber Junior High were winners of a recent contest sponsored by the Cecilians during National Music Week. Each received a check as her award for a prize-winning essay on "Why Music". The invocation for the dinner was the singing of "The Lord's Prayer" by Mrs. Campbell with Miss Anita Pruitt at the piano. A delicious Swiss steak dinner was served by the United Methodist Women.

Following the introduction of guests, Mrs. Campbell presented the club's special guest, Mrs. Harold Wilcox of Delaware, who is President of the Ohio Federation of Music Clubs. She spoke briefly, giving the highlights of musical observances during the Bicentennial and of the recent National Federation Convention in Kansas City. Members and guests joined in the singing of the Hymn-of-the-Month, "Heralds of Christ", with Miss Pruitt at the piano.

Mrs. John E. Rhoads, program chairman for the evening, introduced Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rambo (Karen Carmen) and their accompanist, Mary MacCash. Mr. and Mrs. Rambo are popular soloists for oratorios and operas in Dayton and Cincinnati, having recently performed with Beverly Sills and the Dayton Philharmonic. They are also regular soloists for Westminster Presbyterian Church in Dayton. Their accompanist is organist-choir director of St. John's United Church of Christ in Dayton, Mr. and Mrs. Rambo opened the program with "Funeral della speranza" by Lotti.

From oratorio Mrs. Rambo sang "Laudamus te" from the Mass in C Minor by Mozart. Mr. Rambo presented "Panis omnipotentia" from Liturgy in B Flat by Mozart. They next presented a variety of operatic selections. "Amour viens aider" from Samson et Dalila by Saint-Saens was sung by Mrs. Rambo. Puccini's "Donna non vidi mai" from Manon Lescaut was performed by Mr. Ramo. "In si barbara" from Semiramide by Rossini was Mrs. Rambo's next selection, followed by a duet from "Prince Igor" by Borodin.

To conclude the program Mr. and Mrs. Rambo sang a medley of love duets from the Musical Theater which included "Some Enchanted Evening", "No Two People", "Why Do I Love You?" and "You Are Love". The Cecilian members felt honored to be able to present artists of this ability for their banquet program. The evening closed with group singing of "The Federation Hymn".

Social Security change touchy

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — There is no political nerve more sensitive than the one President Carter is touching now as he tries to deal with the financial woes of the Social Security system.

It is a debt not of his making, but it will come due and payable during his White House years.

The debate will be long and often loud. The Carter plan to get the system out of the red already is encountering trouble in Congress.

None of that is unusual. It has been a perilous issue for years, perhaps because it cuts so close to so many people. Except for the income tax, no government program directly affects so many Americans — 33 million beneficiaries and 104 million taxpayers.

An ill-considered proposal or a careless phrase that seems to cast doubt on the future of the system can, and has, haunted national candidates along the way to defeat.

There have been few political commercials more devastating than the one the Democrats used against

Sen. Barry Goldwater in 1964 — two hands tearing apart a Social Security card. Goldwater had proposed that the system be made voluntary, and he never lived it down.

Ronald Reagan ran afoul of the same issue in 1976, and it plagued him throughout the campaign.

As president, Gerald R. Ford proposed a 5 per cent ceiling on cost of living increases in Social Security benefits. That went nowhere in Congress and served only to enrage the people drawing Social Security pensions. He learned his lesson: at the start of the 1976 campaign year, Ford said full cost of living increases should be guaranteed.

Rising benefits, the economic downturn and the fact that Congress adopted a formula that overcompensates for inflation, all have contributed to the system's current fix.

Carter handled the issue gingerly during his campaign, promising to restore financial integrity, insure future benefits at the same ratio of pension to earnings that exists today, and do it without increasing the taxes of the average wage earner.

He had to bend a little on the last point by proposing that tax rate increases built into the system be imposed sooner than planned — but not until 1985.

But beginning in 1979, he would raise the levies on employers and on upper income taxpayers by raising the amount of income that is subject to the Social Security tax.

Carter's plan is to tax employers on their entire payrolls, instead of limiting their levy to the amount paid by each of their workers.

The administration contends that corporations should be able to absorb the increase from their profits, instead of passing it on to consumers in higher prices. That is a shaky assumption.

To keep the system solvent, Carter recommends that the government put money raised through the income tax into the Social Security system, which always has been financed through its own payroll taxes.

That is to be done only temporarily, and only in times of high unemployment. But whatever the duration, that would be a break with the old concept of Social Security, and a basic change in the system.

White, who also heads Ohio Edison Co., said he disagrees with most of the President's proposals "which particularly affect the electric industry."

"I am sure our customers would have to pay more if the Carter program is adopted," White said.

Deferral of the experimental breeder reactor and nuclear fuel reprocessing programs, while apparently limiting the use of plutonium and the spread of nuclear weapons, "means higher costs in the near-term (into the 1980s) and unnecessary uncertainty after the turn of the century," White said.

The utilities also scorned pending federal legislation to regulate strip mining, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency requirements on sulfur dioxide emissions and "proposals misnamed as conservation issues," such as time-of-day pricing and interruptible rates.

Energy plan draws praise, criticism

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nearly three weeks after President Carter presented his national energy policy to Congress, Ohio electric companies have responded with a mixture of praise and criticism.

The criticism is mostly for the more controversial of Carter's proposals: deferral of experimental breeder reactor development and use of plutonium fuel for nuclear reactors, strip mining of coal and restructuring of electric rates.

On the other hand, the utilities praised Carter's emphasis on coal and nuclear power, conservation of oil and natural gas, conservation by consumers and simplified licensing of nuclear power plants.

"We thought it better to study (the plan) carefully than to shoot from the hip," John R. White, president of the Ohio Electric Utility Institute told a press conference Thursday in explaining why the utilities took so long to respond to the proposals.

But, he said, "We believe a workable energy program can be developed on the basis of Mr. Carter's program if energy producers, legislators and regulators work harmoniously toward realistic goals."

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — As you've probably read, NBC this Sunday is airing "The Father Knows Best Reunion," starring the original cast of the popular Middle America comedy series that aired from 1954 through 1960.

Well, stand by. We've learned a rival network soon will show a similar special, "The Bland Family Reunion," the even more popular Middle America comedy series that was on from 1950 to 1951.

As with NBC's show, the Bland show also reunites its original cast — Peter Bore as the father, Bernadette Estrange as the mother, Everett Scrimshaw as Little Willie and Sue Tidball as Ellie.

"The Bland Family" was really ahead of its time," says Marc deSmyth, the 22-year-old producer of the coming reunion special. "For example, Ellie had a boyfriend."

"Little Willie had a car. His mother had an electric stove. It seems pretty tame now, but this was quite radical for TV back then."

deSmyth noted that unlike many family comedies of the '50s, "The Bland Family" actually spelled out what kindly, understanding Jim Bland, the father in the series, did for a living.

"He was a business executive," deSmyth said. "He didn't spend all his time coming home and saying, 'Hi, hon, I'm home,' then slipping into a smoking jacket and giving advice to his kids. No, sir."

"One scene, which we'll bring back for our show, even has him picking up the phone, calling Cleveland and placing an order."

deSmyth, discussing the work involved in getting the original "Bland Family" cast together again, said it took him nine months and countless phone calls to track down everyone.

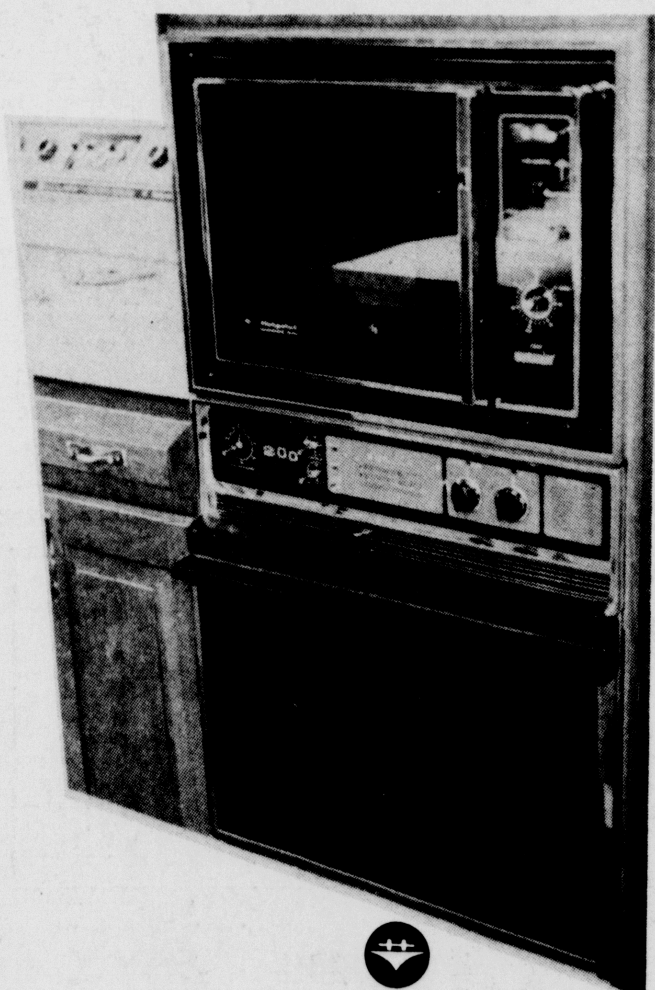

Peter Bore, now 75, had retired from acting when the series folded and was "just sitting on the front porch" of his home in Logan, Utah, when located for the reunion, the producer said.

Miss Estrange, who played the mother, was found in Short Pump, Va., where she runs an organic tobacco store and dips snuff.

Sue Tidball, memorable as Ellie, the headstrong tomboy, was found living on a ranch in Truth or Consequence, N.M., married to Dobie Gillis, a former teen-ager.

Ohio per capita income below nation's average

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's per capita income has fallen below the average for the nation, the Columbus-based Ohio Public Expenditure Council reports.

It said the annual per person income average in 1965 was $2,890 or 3.8 per cent above the national average.

In 1975, it has grown to $5,810, but was 1.6 below the national average of $5,902.

Among all states, Ohio slipped from 15th to 22nd.

The expenditure council, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization financed through contributions, had other dubious information about Ohio in this week's edition of the publication "Tax Facts."

It noted that the state is falling behind, in percentage, in its share of federal aid to state and local governments.

The council said Ohio and its subdivisions got only 3.7 per cent of all such federal aid in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1976, compared to 4.4 per cent in the corresponding period ending in June 1966.

One major reason is that in order to receive federal funds, states and local governments have to come up with a certain amount of matching local dollars.

"Citizens and taxpayers should be aware of the costs involved in attempting to secure federal aid monies..." the council advised.

House members thought they were in for a lecture for sure when conservative Rep. Gene Damschroder, R-85 Fremont, was recognized to speak in a debate over lawmaker salaries and fringe benefits.

Damschroder is the House member who received national publicity earlier this year when he gave the state his personal check for $7,000—representing the first two years of a $3,500-a-year pay hike the lawmakers voted themselves two years ago.

Being debated in the House was a legislative budget for 1977-1979 which represented a 37 per cent increase for the House and a boost of 30 per cent for the Senate.

To that point, most of the speakers had cited increasing demands on lawmakers, the switch to annual sessions a few years back, the higher price of staff help, among other reasons for the hike.

Timely tips for yard, garden

Wilting cucumbers caused by insects

By JOHN P. GRUBER
County Extension Agent, Agriculture
Every spring I get several calls at the Extension Office from gardeners who want to know why their cucumber plants wilted and died.
In many cases the problem is caused by the striped cucumber beetle. The wilting is caused by bacteria which the beetle carries and transmits to the plant as it feeds. This bacteria grows in the circulation system of the plant and plugs it up. The problem has to be controlled before it becomes a problem. This means getting rid of the cucumber beetle.
By the way, it's also a problem of muskmelons, and sometimes of pumpkin and squash. These are all members of the cucumber family.
The disease is known as bacterial wilt. The symptoms are easily identified, especially when you find the cucumber beetles present. Wilting of the plant is the main characteristic. One or a few leaves wilt and become a dull green. The disease spreads from the leaves downward into the stem until the entire plant wilts and dies.
The striped cucumber beetle is the main carrier. However, its cousin the spotted cucumber beetle can also get the job done.
These beetles live over winter as adults in protected areas and come out of hibernation before cucumbers are planted. They just sit around and wait for the young cucumber (or melon) plant to come up. In fact they have been known to find a crack in the soil and start feeding on the plant before it gets through to sunlight.

The best control measure is to use an insecticide when the cucumber seedlings first come up. Repeat treatments will be needed every five to seven days after that the rest of the growing season. Recommended spray materials include Sevin, Malathion, Methoxychlor, or Thiodan. Follow label directions according to mixing and application instructions. A note of caution, Malathion may cause injury to the plants if applied before they start to vine. Malathion and Sevin should not be combined for application because they will burn the foliage.
Keep in mind the proper use is important as you use a pesticide to control cucumber beetle or any other garden pest. There are hundreds of products on the market. Some are relatively safe, others are quite toxic. But they all should be handled carefully.
You must identify the pest and make sure the product you buy is the one that is labeled for the critter you want to kill. The pesticide label will tell you the name of the crops and the insects or diseases you can control.
Always, store the pesticide in its original container out of the reach of children.
Now that things have started to dry out from last week's rains there is plenty to do in the yard and garden this week. They include:
—If you've planted the cucumbers, spray or dust the emerging plants. If not - plant them;
—Radish harvest should begin anytime now;
—Plant bush and pole beans, muskmelon, late potatoes, egg plant, pepper and tomatoes;
—Control rose insects and disease with a regular spraying or dusting program;
—Seed cabbage for fall crop;
—Remove spent blooms or developing seed pods from tulips, daffodils, and hyacinths. Do not remove the green leaves;
—Plant flowering annual transplants such as ageratum, alyssum, celosia, marigold, petunia, snap dragon, salvia, and zinnia; and —Control weeds in the garden and strawberry planting. The bad part about recent rains was that it made the weeds grow too.

Agricultural weather reported favorable

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:
Another two or three days of favorable working conditions are ahead for Ohio farmers. Partly cloudy skies and generally low afternoon humidities will be the typical situation through Sunday.
Field operations — A combination of warm temperatures in the low to mid 70s plus abundant sunshine have improved most Ohio fields to good working condition. The fair weather pattern is showing some signs of change but the state will remain warm. Scattered showers with a frontal area will be entering Ohio Monday or Tuesday. Any interruption to field work from this shower period will be on a scattered basis and probably light to occasionally moderate in amounts. The evaporation losses today through Saturday will be around 0.25 hundredths of an inch and slightly less Sunday through Tuesday as humidities increase.
Soil temperatures — Soils were warming steadily Thursday and averaging in mid to upper 50s north through central and in low 60s south. Further warming is likely next 3 or 4 days. Good germination rate for soybeans and corn is expected where seed bed moisture is adequate.
Haying Outlook — Any risk of shower activity today and Saturday will be minimal. Efforts to further cut for harvest early next week could face scattered wetting Monday or Tuesday.

Photographer says Mantle 'nastiest'

CHICAGO (AP) — Marilyn Monroe was the "most exciting," Mary Pickford "the nicest" and Mickey Mantle "the nastiest," recalls Mike Rotunno, who for 50 years stood watch at O'Hare International Airport to capture the world's celebrities on film.
Rotunno, now 74, also says a lingering kiss from the late Joan Crawford was "the best kiss of all" among the many bestowed upon him.
"Why should they kiss me?" he laughs. "Oh, you know how show-business people are. They're always kissing everyone."
Rotunno said in the early 1960's when Mantle was the baseball idol of many, "a policeman wanted me to take a picture of him with Mr. Mantle to give to his son. I told Mr. Mantle what the officer wanted and he shouted: 'Get away from me, you idiot.'"
Rotunno said his favorite president was Harry Truman. "Whenever he'd come through O'Hare he'd always drop in my office and I'd give him a shot of whisky."
Rotunno's wife, Winifred, is a former Chez Paree Adorable of Chicago's old nightclub circuit.
"Sometimes she'd hear that I'd kiss an actress and she'd ask how it was," said Rotunno. "I'd always say: 'Oh, her kisses weren't nearly as good as yours.' That's why we've stayed married for 43 years."

Nixon becoming steady golfer
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard Nixon has been playing quite a bit of golf at the Estrella Golf Course near his home here, according to a local golf pro.
Bob Martin, the course's assistant pro, says Nixon shoots in the low 80s over the 18-hole, par-71 course. The former president plays frequently, Martin said, often with staff aide Col. Jack Brennan, his Secret Service bodyguard and his doctor.

Only one hit

Reds hit the skids again

By PAUL LeBAR
AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "It was ball three for a base hit," said the St. Louis Cardinals' Buddy Schultz, no more than slightly disappointed.

The Cincinnati Reds' Ken Griffey interrupted Schultz' bid for a combined no-hitter with John D'Acquisto but failed to dampen his spirits following a 10-1 Thursday Cards triumph.

"I wanted him to hit that pitch before, but he wouldn't go for it," said Schultz, 2-0, who yielded an opposite-field double to Griffey with two out in the eighth for the Reds' only hit.

"It was a slider," the lefthander explained. "Then he hit a 2-2 fast ball that was really a ball. But he hit it." Griffey's blow, a smash to left field, ended a spell that had been cast over Cincinnati bats since D'Acquisto, a right-hander, opened the game with a walk to Pete Rose.

Rose scampered to second on a wild pitch, reached third on Griffey's grounder and scored on Dan Driessen's sacrifice fly in a hitless Reds first.

Afterward, however, the flame-throwing D'Acquisto muffled Cincinnati bats with his speed and survived three walks in the third by inducing George Foster to foul out with the bases full.

D'Acquisto breezed through the fourth with two of his five strikeouts but departed in the bottom of the inning for pinchhitter Bake McBride as St. Louis grabbed a 2-1 lead.

Then Schultz, whom the Cards acquired via a winter trade from the Chicago Cubs, mowed down 10 batters in a row before Griffey spoiled his bid for a line in baseball's record book.

"I had super control," said the 26-year-old Schultz, who gave way to Al Hrabosky for mop-up chores in the ninth. "I think I've really concentrated on staying on top."

"In the eighth inning I knew what we had. I was pitching my heart out," Schultz added. "I don't think it's that you're thinking about a no-hitter so much as it is you're driving off the mound and concentrating — sort of gearing up."

D'Acquisto, although at first unhappy with his removal, stuck around to watch the remainder of the contest and afterward admitted, "I was excited."

"I took him out for two reasons," said St. Louis Manager Vern Rapp. "Number one was I felt that since it was only his second pitching start it was as far as I wanted him to go. Number two was our offense was sputtering and we needed the run."

McBride delivered a sacrifice fly to unlock a 1-1 tie while batting for D'Acquisto and Don Kessinger's bad-hop single over Joe Morgan's glove triggered a six-run burst by the Cards in the sixth.

"I had a no-hitter for 7 2-3 innings against Montreal when I was a rookie in 1974," the 25-year-old D'Acquisto recalled. "I ended up having to come out of the game because of a blister on my foot. Then the relief came in, gave up a hit and we won the game 1-0."

Some advice to the champ: stay away from Norton

NEW YORK (AP) — Hey, Muhammad Ali, wherever you are, were you looking Wednesday night? Did a lump come in your throat and did you feel a sudden cold chill when Ken Norton came out of his corner like a whirlwind and demolished young Duane Bobick in 58 seconds?

Shades of Dempsey against Firpo, Louis against Schmeling, Marciano against Walcott. You had to look quickly or you missed it.

Now along Bash Boulevard they're saying you have another date — your fourth — with this man in Rio de Janeiro next September. Take some advice from an old friend and a long-time admirer: Skip it. Tell 'em you have a crick in the back. Take a trip. Get lost. Say your loving mother begged you never to indulge in violence again.

Anything. Just don't go near Ken Norton until his fists have been defused or he's had a couple of years in Hollywood playing next to movie starlets. Avoid him as you would a hand grenade with the pin pulled out.

Quit while the quitting's good. Don't — with the whole world watching — wind up flat on your back. Let us remember Ali as king of the ring, unmarked, unstoppable, standing there, yelling, "I am the greatest!"

You've taken us down an exciting road.

We remember you as the naive, big-eyed kid from Louisville, Cassius Clay, who won the light-heavy gold medal in the 1960 Olympics at Rome. We saw them nurture you through your first pro fights. We endured, even occasionally laughed at, your ridiculous poems.

We were at Miami Beach in 1964 when, as an underwhelming underdog, you threw that pre-fight tantrum misinterpreted as panic and wrested the world championship from a frightening creature named Liston.

Then came the stormy times — the conversion to Islam, the Black Muslim movement and the new name: Muhammad Ali. The refusal to take the step for military service. It was you against the government and the nation's patriots. You won.

Your title was taken away unjustly. Three and a half years of ring rust. "Ali can never come back," the guys in the sweaty gyms said.

They reckoned without qualities of resilience that defy imagination. You came back. That, Ali, is when you should have recognized the signal and quit.

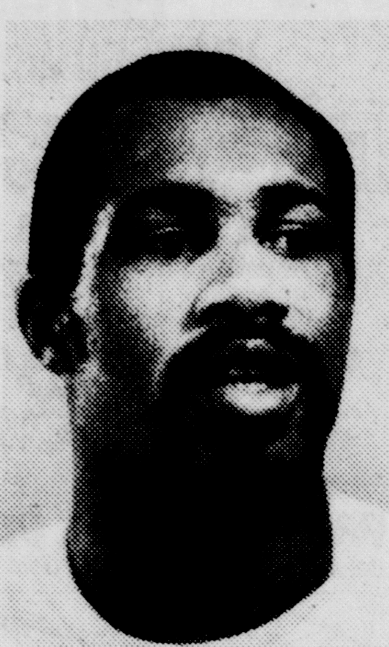

They say you're fighting again because you need the money. You've grossed $30 million since Zaire, and you're busted.

Aw, come on. "Truth is," said a close associate, "Ali is cash poor. He's got property all over the place — the retreat at Deer Lake in Pennsylvania, the camp in Michigan, Al Capone's old place and a 50-room mansion in Chicago. But no liquid assets."

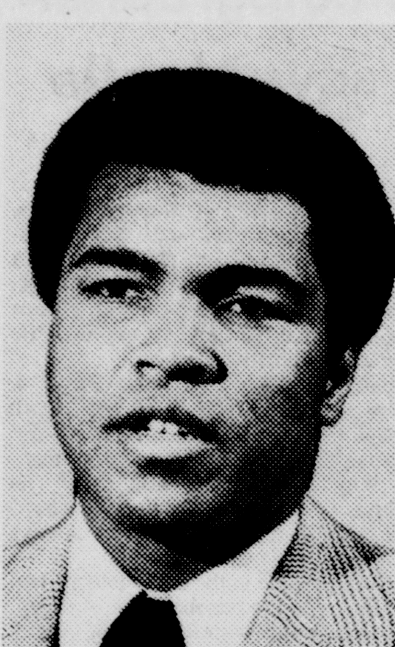

Now you're 35, soft and war weary. Norton, four years younger, broke your jaw in the first fight and slapped you around in the last two.

Take this warning from your old adversary, Smokin' Joe:

"Norton beat him three times already. Next time he'll kill him."

Yankees lose to Mariners

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
It was difficult to tell which was the expansion team as the Seattle Mariners recorded their first-ever series sweep Thursday night ... over the New York Yankees, no less.

"We just played bad and they played well," Yankees Manager Billy Martin explained after his defending American League champions fumbled their way through an 8-6 defeat at the hands of the 35-game-old Mariners on the heels of a 5-2 setback Wednesday night.

In the only other AL games, the Texas Rangers blanked the Kansas City Royals 2-0, the California Angels overtook the Baltimore Orioles 7-5 and the Detroit Tigers swamped the Milwaukee Brewers 9-1.

The Yankees committed five errors — five more than the Mariners — including three on consecutive ground balls in the third inning, and handed Seattle six unearned runs while the expansionists ran the bases daringly, stealing three bases.

In the first inning, Seattle's Dan

Meyer and Bill Stein hit consecutive balls off Catfish Hunter into the stands. The hits were called home runs and, coming in the wake of a two-out error by third baseman Graig Nettles, gave the Mariners a 3-1 lead.

A throwing error by catcher Thurman Munson helped set up a Seattle run in the second.

WCH reserves win seventh

The Washington C.H. reserve baseball team won its seventh game in eight tries this season last night with a 7-3 decision over Wilmington.

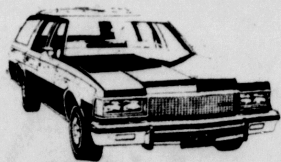

John Elrich started the game for the Blue Lions and pitched four innings while striking out six and walking five. He left with the game tied, 3-3.

John Belles came in to pitch in the fifth inning and, although walking five, he threw blanks at the Hurricane while his teammates scored four runs in the final two innings. Belles recorded the win.

Heavy hitters for the Lions were Steve Pritchett who went 2-for-3, Belles who had a 2-for-4 day and Jim Bennett who had a perfect 1-for-1.

The Lions next games will be tomorrow at Circleville for a doubleheader that begins at 12 noon. WILMINGTON 300 000 0-3 WASHINGTON C.H. 201 013 X-7

Braves win, pop the cork

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

No, the Atlanta Braves didn't win the National League pennant Thursday. Yes, that was champagne in the Braves' dressing room after the game.

The bubbly was provided by Jeff Burroughs after the Braves snapped a 17-game losing streak by defeating the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-1.

"Let's play again right now. We're hot," Burroughs said.

Pitcher Max Leon drove in three runs and combined with reliever Rich Camp for a four-hitter, snapping Pittsburgh's 11-game winning string.

In other NL games Thursday, St. Louis crushed Cincinnati 10-1, Los Angeles defeated Montreal 8-2, Philadelphia blanked San Francisco 3-0 and San Diego topped the New York Mets 5-2.

The Braves, who had not won since April 22, scored in the third inning when Leon, 1-1, hit a sacrifice fly. Loser Bruce Kison, 3-2, yielded a run-scoring double to Brian Asselstine in the fourth inning, then the Braves put the game away with four runs in the eighth, two runs scoring on a single by Leon.

Atlanta was playing under its third manager in three games. Third base coach Vern Benson took over when league President Chub Feeney ordered Braves owner Ted Turner to give up his one-day job of managing the team. Turner gave regular Manager Dave Bristol a 10-day leave of absence after the Braves had lost 16 in a row.

Cards 10, Reds 1
John D'Acquisto, Buddy Schultz and Al Hrabosky teamed for a one-hitter while Tony Scott, Don Kessinger and Keith Hernandez drove in two runs each as St. Louis routed Cincinnati. The Reds' lone hit was a two-out, eighth-inning double by Ken Griffey.

Mike Tyson and Bake McBride drove in Cardinals runs in the fourth, then St. Louis erupted for six runs in the sixth inning, two on Kessinger's bad-hop double and two on a single by Scott. Hernandez singled for two runs in the eighth.

Dodgers 8, Expos 2
Dave Lopes and Reggie Smith slammed first-inning home runs, helping right-hander Don Sutton move into sole possession of second place on the all-time Dodgers' winning list with a victory over Montreal. Sutton, who needed last-inning help from reliever Mike Garman, increased his season mark to 5-0 and earned his 181st career victory. Only Don Drysdale, who won 209 games, tops Sutton among Dodgers pitchers.

Giants 3, Phillies 0
A three-hitter by right-hander Larry Christenson gave Philadelphia its victory over San Francisco.

Christenson, 3-3, outpitched Giants right-hander John Montefusco, 2-5, who suffered his fourth straight setback. Montefusco has had a total of three runs scored for him in the four games.

Greg Luzinski, Rich Hebner and Mike Schmidt drove in the Phillies' runs.

Padres 5, Mets 2
San Diego's Tom Griffin, 3-1, hurled seven strong innings and smashed a homer, leading the Padres over the Mets. Griffin allowed only three hits before being relieved by Rollie Fingers after giving up a two-run homer to John Milner in the eighth.

Namath signs with Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'm here to play football," Joe Namath said simply after he'd signed a contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

"Sure, I'm interested in getting more involved in the movies and television, but as everybody who's dealt with me knows, football comes first."

Namath, the colorful and sometimes controversial quarterback who'd spent his 12 professional football seasons with the New York Jets, agreed to terms with Los Angeles Thursday. His move from Broadway to the Sunset Strip was accompanied by fanfare hardly expected for the signing of a 34-year-old third-string quarterback with gimpy knees.

At a jammed press conference in a plush Beverly Hills hotel, Namath said he was pleased to be with the Rams, a preference he'd made known as early as 1975.

"Every player dreams of being part of an organization like the Rams," he said. "They have a very high caliber of players, fine personnel. I am grateful to Mr. Rosenbloom and the Rams organization for bringing me here. I am also grateful to the New York Jets. They were good to me while I was there."

Namath was the most feared passer in the NFL in the late 1960s, but knee injuries and the Jets' flagging fortunes in recent years made him generally ineffective.

Little League box scores

Two more minor league teams made their 1977 season debuts last night in the Washington C.H.-Union Township Little League.

In the first game, 14 errors by Roller Haven enabled First Federal to get an easy 16-3 win and in the second game, 17 errors by Helfrich's helped the Eagles cause as the Eagles crushed Helfrich's 25-2.

No Fidrych start before May 27

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, still recovering from a knee operation, won't make his first start of the season until at least May 27, Detroit Tigers manager Ralph Houk announced Thursday.

Houk still has not set the exact date for Fidrych's belated pitching debut this season. But contrary to earlier speculation the Bird won't pitch against the California Angeles on May 24 or May 25. Houk says the earliest Fidrych would pitch would be May 27 when Seattle comes to Detroit.

During observance at local hospital

Hospital foundation outlined

Fayette County Memorial Hospital this week is observing National Hospital Week to spotlight services the hospital provides throughout the year. One of the most important of these services is the hospital's foundation. Since the community feels a measure of security in the existence of the hospital and its capabilities, it is important that citizens realize how many of the hospital's services are a result of voluntary donations, such as the foundation, which was established in 1976.

The foundation provides abundant opportunities for expansion within the hospital and sophistication of medical education, staff development, emergency service and out-patient programs. The foundation uses various approaches in its efforts to obtain financing. The program seeks out interested individuals, corporations, private organizations, foundations, government and tax supported groups in its effort to assure the financial commitment needed.

The foundation is a non-profit tax exempt corporation created to receive gifts designated for Fayette County Memorial Hospital. These gifts are used for the maintenance, development and extension of facilities and services of the hospital.

The foundation, which operates exclusively for the benefit and support of Fayette County Memorial Hospital, will accept property, both real and personal, by way of gift, bequest, devise or other means from any person, firm, trust or corporation, to be held, administered, invested, reinvested, and disposed of for the benefit of the hospital.

Without tax money and with only modest operating profit, the special donations have supplied the fastest and most dramatic advances. The foundation hopes to interest far more people in this funding.

People who want to contribute to the foundation can be assured that their gift will be used in whatever area that is specified. The priority areas of need within the hospital include, general development, facilities and equipment, student assistance, medical education, pediatrics (newborn nursery), coronary care unit, school of nursing, and department of respiratory therapy.

Those who contribute to the foundation are recognized by having their names placed on a plaque in the main lobby area of the hospital. All donations are recognized.

Officers of the foundation for 1977 are George Lundberg, president; Clifford Hughes, vice president; Doris Wipert, secretary, and Clarence Cooper, executive director.

Donations can be sent to Fayette County Memorial Hospital Foundation, P.O. Box 415, Washington C.H.

Letter to the Editor

EDITOR, THE RECORD HERALD:

A perfect example of what a community can do when all people work together, was shown clearly at our recent Altrusa Hypertension-Diabetes Screening Clinic. As Altrusa's Community Service Chairman, I am using this means to say a heartfelt thanks to all the individuals and organizations who helped in any way.

There are far too many people to name separately in a letter of appreciation because of the scope of our undertaking. You see, Altrusa is only 24 women strong, and to take on a project where nearly 700 Fayette Countians were screened for high blood pressure and diabetes seems monumental. Thank you are in order to the State Health Department and the Fayette County Health Department for assistance from the planning stages to the completion of the clinic. In addition we would like to thank all the volunteer nurses and technicians who helped staff the clinic. We thank the personnel at the Record Herald—especially Cindi Pearce for excellent news coverage. And we also thank personnel at WCHO—especially Bob Lutz for the radio time made available to us. A very special thanks goes to all the community oriented business persons who contributed advertising money, poster prize money, and other services. Without this kind of financial support Altrusa could not have provided such a community service.

A big thank you to the personnel at the National Guard Armory—especially Larry Hott—for providing a location for the clinic and assisting us in so many ways. Also we are grateful to our local police department, the Twenties Club, the Fayette County Nurses Association, the Medical Society, and all the people involved with our publicity poster contest. The posters you saw displayed at Craig's were only the winners—there were many other posters displayed throughout the community, representing a great deal of work by 6th, 7th, and 8th graders.

There are many other individuals who gave unselfishly to help make the clinic such a success. To all of you who helped with moral or financial support, thank you. We could not have done it without you.

One last thank you needs to be said. Thank you to every Altrusan for the months and months of work necessary to make this project work. A part of our motto is "Service". In my mind this clinic is a very real service to our community.

It has been a very rewarding experience. I cannot say who will reap the greatest reward—the community for having received such service or all the persons involved in the project—for having given such service and feeling the satisfaction associated with helping others.

One thing is certain: this clinic was a success and it was successful only because our community responded positively from the first planning stages to the close. That can only be gratifying. I thank all of you for that.

Demos ram judgeship bill through

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Democrats have voted to create three election districts for municipal judges in Hamilton County over GOP claims of "judicial gerrymandering."

Republicans also charged Thursday that the 58-33 vote by which it passed the House fell short of the two-thirds majority (66) required by the Ohio Constitution for the creation of "a new court."

They hinted at possible legal action if the controversial bill, which returns to the Senate for consideration of House amendments, is finally enacted.

Rep. Richard H. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, was ruled out of order by House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, when the Hamilton County lawmaker objected that the bill had not been passed.

Theft report investigated

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department is checking into the theft of a $90 set of horse hobbles from the Lakewood Hills Stables.

John F. Joseph of Sabina reported that the hobbles were left hanging in a barn on Monday, and when he returned to the barn on Wednesday, the hobbles were missing.

The Washington C.H. Police Department is investigating two bicycle theft reports Thursday.

Seven-year-old John Tway of 1201 Willard St. reported that his 20-inch bicycle was stolen sometime Wednesday or Thursday while it was parked in the rear of his residence. The bicycle was valued at $70.

Martha R. Nuchols, 214 S. North St., reported that her son's 26-inch bicycle was taken from her residence sometime Wednesday or Thursday. The bicycle was valued at $25.

City police officers also investigated a dog bite incident Thursday. Roger A. Puckett, 1025 Dayton Ave., told police officers that his eight-year-old daughter Robbin was playing in a neighbor's yard when a dog bit her on the lower leg. She was treated and released from the Fayette County Memorial Hospital emergency room.

LITERATURE DISTRIBUTED — Doris Wipert, secretary of the Fayette County Memorial Hospital Foundation, and George Lundberg, president of the organization, passed out brochures on Foundation Day, just one of the activities during this week's observance of National Hospital Week.
